

DATE & TIME:

Wednesday,
March 21, 2018
Noon - 1 p.m.

LOCATION:

Washington State
Bar Association
Conference Center,
1325 Fourth Ave.,
6th floor,
Seattle, WA 98101

and via live webcast

THE WASHINGTON STATE BAR ASSOCIATION invites you to Decoding the Law, a conversation series for members and the community to share information on timely and relevant legal issues in a nonpartisan fashion.

In less than a year, the nation has witnessed a paradigm shift in how workplace sexual harassment is addressed. The downfall of titans of politics and entertainment, one after another, has empowered a growing number of women, and sometimes men, to break their silence and seek accountability. What does this new woke culture mean for the workplace?

The latest installment of the Decoding the Law series examines this reckoning and the changes it might evoke. What are victims' rights? What is the best path to justice? Should employers revise their workplace policies? And what changes to the law might there be on the horizon?

PANELISTS:

MODERATOR:

Carrie Blackwood
Barron Smith Daugert,
PLLC, Bellingham

Ceci Lopez
Cecilia Lopez Law Firm,
Bellingham

Marilyn Watkins,
Economic Opportunity
Institute, Seattle

Elizabeth Van Moppes,
Beresford Booth,
Edmonds

Jamal N. Whitehead,
Schroeter Goldmark
Bender, Seattle

For more information, go to:
www.wsba.org/News-and-Events/Decoding-the-Law